JACKS CLIP CALS FOR ONE GAME LEAD

The West brothers added the needed spark to send the Union Jacks into a one game lead in their best of three Alberta Senior Mens basketball playoffs here the other night by downing the Edmonton Cals 93-79 in an easy victory at the Opera House.

Al and Larry hit a torrid lick as they bombarded the hoop for 28 and 22 points respectively.

In the first quarter of that important game the locals displayed their best ball of the game and a packed house saw the visitors fall behind 27-12 under the steady play and sharp shooting of all five hoopers. Ray Stevenson had his best ten minutes in that opening stanza as he tumbled in 13 points.

The Oil Capital men found their bearings in the second and the third cantos however and made the locals fight for every point they were able to chalk up. The visitors struck for 21 points in the second frame as did the Jacks. In the second to the last episode the two clubs battled to a 23 point draw however the locals remained ahead on the strength of their first quarter drubbing of the Cals.

When the Cals had only four men left on the floor with only two minutes left in the game they still would not quit and managed to outscore the Sugar City quintet 23-22.

For the losers Art Krugar and Jim McCrae were the heroes in the scoring department with 19 and 18 points respectively.

Lineups:
Cals: Keir 7, Turner 9, Kimball 11, Krugar 19, Mendryk 15, Yousefowich. Jacks: Al West 28, L. West 22, Stevenson 16, Shaw 8, Nalder 2, Snow 5, Ralph 5, Dahl 4, Stone 3, Rolfeon Brewerton.

JACKS ARE ALBERTA CHAMPS

Before possibly the biggest crowd of basketball fans ever to witness a ball game in the Sugar City our local Union Jacks scored a thrilling 71-65 monton Cals who without their coach victory over a die hard bunch of Ed and key figure on the floor were not keen enough on the attack to overpower the locals. The game was played in the new LDS recreation hall which has just been recently completed and marked the first ball game ever to take place in the new building. Sparked by the snappy play of Ray Stevenson and Larry West, the Jacks were able to come from behind in the dying moments of the game to chalk up the win. Stevenson canned 22 points followed closely by West's 21.

For the losers Keir and Kimball contributed 18 and 16 points respectively.

Close to 1000 fans saw the hepped-up Cals take a lead in the first quarter and remain ahead when the half-time buzzer sounded. The game was one of the most exciting exhibitions put on by the Jacks this season and the win gave them the right to tackle Alberni, B.C., for the Western Canada semi-finals. The winner of that series takes on the Winnipeg Paulins in Winnipeg. The Jacks-Alberni game is scheduled for Saturday night.

Bifocal

When I was young and did not know The proper way to bake and sew, I married one who thought that he Possessed a priceless gem—in me.
(If love is blind and sees no wrong, It helps make life one glad sweet song!)

Because he saw not my mistakes, But ate my soggy pies and cakes, And downed with relish meat and bread (Though one was raw and one like lead),
And words of praise were on his tongue

Though sewed-on buttons limply hung, I found that I, who had been one Who disliked housework, called it fun.
Today, on looking back, I find That I have learned love is not blind—But has quite clear bifocal eyes, Tender and kind, loving and wise.
And now I guess I wouldn't do,
To let him know I know he knew.
Isa Paschal Richardson

The queue in the post office was getting longer and longer. At its head —before the grille with the "Pensions" label—an old woman was taking her time. She fumbled in her handbag; brought out first one and then another article and laid them on the counter. They made an imposing collection.

The pension book still hadn't come to light, but a little old man with a soldierly look about him could stand it no longer. "Hurry up, Ma," he called out. "This is a pay parade, not a kit inspection."

Peking Radio announced that a new bridge—"as high as a ten-story building"—is being built which will span the Yangtze River from Wuchang to Hanyang.

The Communist radio said the bridge would link Canton and Peking by joining two railways which now end at the banks of the Yangtze.

Those Feet

Feet have one of the hardest jobs in the human body since they are the means of locomotion and support our full weight, which is no light matter in the case of the heavier types. The woman who is overweight should (in addition to trying to reduce that weight). Choose shoes which will help her feet to bear their load. Correctly measured shoes, with solid, well-fitted heels, will aid in distributing the body weight with less strain on the foot.

Tips on Touring .. From Carol Lane

If you're the driver of a car, you're responsible for the comfort of your passengers as well as for their safety.
Here's how to keep your back-seat companions happy:

- (1) Avoid drafts. Air that the driver scarcely feels from the window at his elbow, goes back to create a draft on the back-of-the of his back-seat passengers.
- (2) Make sure the radio is loud enough so the people in the rear can hear it easily.
- (3) Don't flip cigarette ashes or butts from the window. They are often sucked in an open rear window.
- (4) If your heater has no back-seat outlet, provide a lap robe.
- (5) Don't drive too close to the car or weave in and out of traffic.
You may have plenty of room, it may look like a close shave from the back seat.

Remember that as the driver, you are the host. Treat your passengers as you would guests in your own home.

Kitchen Tricks

Fig Cookie Dessert — If there's a fig lover in your family, why not try this refrigerator dessert made with fig cookies? You'll need 1 cup heavy cream, which you whip until stiff. Add to this 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract and a dash of salt. Add 4 teaspoons grated lemon rind and 4 teaspoons sugar.
Break fig bars into cubes about 1/4 inch square until you have 3 cups. Fold fig cookie cubes into whipped cream mixture. Place in mold in refrigerator until mixture becomes firm. Unmold and serve or dip from mold into sherbet glasses.

Divine Healing Studied

The Church of England has announced appointment of a commission of five bishops, leading clergy, natural scientists and laymen to investigate the subject of divine healing.

The commission was asked to consider theological, medical, psychological and pastoral aspects and to draw up a report to provide "clearer understanding of the subject."

The investigation is expected to take between two and three years.

TOASTED open-faced sandwiches satisfy your hunger pangs but don't heat the kitchen since cooking time is short. Toast bread on

NOTES FROM YOUR HOME ECONOMIST

— Miss Lila Engberg

SOAPS AND SYNDETS:

Did you know that the word "detergent" is a misused word? The dictionary defines a detergent as anything that removes soil. Water is a detergent and so is soap, because they remove soil. About a year ago the laundry industry decided to adopt the word "syndets" as an abbreviation of synthetic detergents, for that is what the newest detergents are - synthetic.

The kind of detergent to use will depend upon the water conditions in the home, the type of fabric to be washed and the soil.

Syndets are not really superior to soaps in soil removal. It is the hard water that makes the difference. Syndets do not react with hardness minerals to form insoluble curds that stick to the clothes and machines. If soap is used in hard water, it must be used in combination with a nonprecipitating water softener at the beginning of the wash period and then the same amount added in the rinse.

Light-duty or mild soaps do not have the washing power to remove heavy soil. Therefore do not allow your delicate fabrics to become heavily soiled.

Heavy-duty soaps are fortified with alkaline builders to help penetrate and dissolve heavy soil.

Syndets are of two types:

Low-sudsing syndets are produced to combat the over-sudsing problem.
Suds in itself have no cleaning value.

High-sudsing syndets are of two types - all-purpose and mild. Mild syndets are 30-40 per cent synthetic material and the remainder a neutral salt which bolsters the cleansing power.

All-purpose syndets contain builders which increase the detergency and also have a little softening effect on hard water. They are de-greasers and are not so good for the skin and machines.

Consult the instructions that come with your washer regarding the amount to use. A measuring cup will save waste and expense. Do not dump from the box. One cupful may be enough. In general - be certain a good rich suds (high-sudsing syndets or soap) covers the entire surface of wash water and lasts throughout the wash period.

What the Flag Stands For

The things that the flag stands for were created by the experiences of a great people. Everything that it stands for was written by their lives. The flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, the experiences of those who do and live under that flag.

DON'T HURRY YOUR LOVE

By Elizabeth Hall

JOEY Blake stepped out onto the front porch and let the screen door swing listlessly shut behind him. Aunt Em's worried blue eyes studied his dark face, tight lines ringing his mouth. No nineteen-year-old should have such unhappy lines, such dull eyes.

"Joey, what's wrong?" she asked. "Wouldn't it help to talk about it?"

"I don't know exactly what is wrong," Joey's young voice was low and troubled, more as if he were talking to himself. "I haven't seen Sue alone for three weeks. She seems glad to see me when I go over but there's always a gang around. I never really get a chance to be with her."

"Sue is still in high school, Joey," she said. You graduated last spring and have worked ever since. You know you will soon have to enter the army. You have an adult's outlook now. But Sue's viewpoint is still that of a child. You shouldn't want it any other way. She shouldn't be robbed of her last happy year of school, care-free and untroubled."

Aunt Em held Joey with a wise compassionate gaze and continued, "You've grown so intense, so full of urgency to get to the business of loving and living that subconsciously she is frightened. I think Sue loves you but she is not ready for the adult love you feel. Keeping a crowd of her friends around makes her feel safer."

"But, Aunt Em, you know I would never do anything to hurt Sue. She ought to know that too."

"Yes, Joey," Aunt Em said gently. "But you would hurt her if you forced her to grow up too fast. If you could make her feel all tied up in knots like you have been the last few weeks, you would be hurting her."

"But, Aunt Em, what can I do?" he asked desperately. "I'm afraid I'll lose her. I turn cold all over when I think of it."

"Go back, if you can, to the friendly gay relationship you two have had for four years," Aunt Em advised.

"Sue won't avoid you when the tension relaxes. Then when the time comes, when she gets out of school next year she'll be ready to return to the deeper feeling you want from her. Keep it light, Joey, keep it easy. She loves you I'm sure. Just stop rushing her."

"I'll try. I'm going over to Sue's now. I won't be late," Joey spoke happily, and leaped down the steps to the walk.

At the Traynor house Joey heard the record-player going full blast as usual. Conviction that Aunt Em was possessed of unusual wisdom grew in him. Fastening a wide carefree grin on his face, Joey tapped on the door. One of the gang let him in but he saw Sue across the room, wide alert gray eyes meeting his warily. Sue was golden-haired, peach-skinned, with a tiny slender figure curved just right for the school-girl skirts and sweaters she usually wore. Joey's heart turned over as it always did at the sight of her. Determinedly he kept the grin in place and flipped a careless hand in her direction. His assumed ease became real as he saw the tension relax in her face.

During two records, to which some of the gang jitter-bugged, Joey carried his share of the speculative argument about the chances of this season's football team and never let his gay expression slip.

Smiling, Sue firmly turned off the record-player.

"That's all for tonight, kids," she said. "I've a date with Joey."

"Hello, Joey," Sue said softly when they were alone. "You've been a stranger lately. I'm glad to have you back."

Joey struggled desperately for a light remark but came up with nothing better than a lame invitation. "Want to walk down to the drugstore for a malt?"

"Yes," Sue answered and Joey's heart stood still for a long moment as briefly her hand nestled against his cheek as lightly as a butterfly.

Then turning swiftly toward the door, swinging their hands like children, they went out.

Second Westerner to Win Marsh Trophy

Douglas Hepburn, a 28-year-old native of Vancouver who overcame a physical deformity to win the world's weight-lifting title at Stockholm last summer, is the 1953 winner of the Lou Marsh Memorial trophy awarded annually to Canada's outstanding athlete, amateur or professional. The Vancouver strong boy is the second western Canadian to win the award. Last year George Genereux of Saskatoon, who won a gold medal in trap-shooting at the 1952 Olympics was awarded the trophy. Hepburn's story is an amazing example of a man overcoming physical disabilities. He has a partially withered leg and cruel mockery of this deformity by schoolmates started him working on the weights to build up his body. When he started he weighed 145 pounds. Today he packs 280 pounds of muscle on a 5'9" frame. In the Stockholm meet Hepburn set a new world's record in the press and then in his third attempt broke his own record by lifting an unbelievable 369-pound press.

VACATION LURES FOR CANADIAN
Late winter vacations are becoming "a must" with many Canadians who wish to escape the bitter cold of late winter or the slushy snows of early spring. Canadian Pacific Air Lines new service to Mexico and South America offers quick escape from Old Man winter's last cold clutches to the sunnier climes of the south. A service from Vancouver to Mexico City puts that charming latin land within 10 hours of Canada.
Equally quick flights by giant new DC-6B aircraft also put the alluring Hawaiian Islands within easy reach. Special tours in Mexico have been arranged including visits to famed Acapulco (upper right), America's own Riviera, where native divers defy death daily (see circle) plunging from towering heights into the broiling waters of the Pacific. At Mexico City visits to the new University, library of which is shown here (lower left), and to the famed "floating gardens" are musts for vacationists. Sunbathed Hawaii offers, among many other attractions, Diamond Head and one of the world's best-known beaches, Waikiki (lower right).
